DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 31 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are to a method of forming an image by causing an image to be formed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kosel [3753760] in view of Handbook of Imaging Materials by Diamond and Weiss. Applicants' claims are to a toner composition a method of making a toner composition and an imaging process. The toner has an amphipathic copolymer as a binder with a visual enhancement additive in the binder i.e. encapsulated. Kosel teaches the use of an amphipathic polymer note Col.9 lines 15-50 that is made by dispersing the materials and milling the mixture note Col. 15lines 40-65 as a toner binder in an imaging process note Col.1 lines 15-40. Chemical reactions with the chromophores and polymer is to employ the dye which is copolymerized into a solvated backbone before the backbone is grafted or blocked polymerized with the non-solvated moieties ( D-moieties) Col.18 lines 30-40. Kosel fails to teach the particle size and liquid toner preparation which are taught by Diamond and Weiss note page 246. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention with a reasonable expectation of success to use the known particle sizes and methods of mixing of the polymers and pigments to obtain a toner with an encapsulated pigment that has an amphipathic polymer in a binder for the toner particle that improves the dispersion of the toner in a liquid carrier.

Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Quin et al. in view of Keoshkerian et al. Quin[20020128349] teaches a graft copolymer and a steric stabilizer with a pigment in a toner to improve an electrophotographic ink composition with improved dispersion stability. The amphipathic polymer absorbs onto, ionically bonds to or covalently bonds to the core toner binder having a pigment. The attached amphipathic polymer shell acts to sterically stabilize the core particles. Note [0009]. Quin fails to teach the reaction of the sterically stabilizer with a pigment. Keoshkerian et al teaches the reaction of a hydrophobic stabilizer and a pigment with a hydrophilic polymer note Col. 11 lines 50-65. Also Fig 1 shows that the stabilizer is on the surface of the toner particle. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention with a reasonable expectation of success to use in place reaction of the amphipathic polymers and pigments in the toner composition in which the surface of the pigment is encapsulated by the polymer to improve the stability in a liquid carrier.
